Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

What a great time the boys must have when a few of them from the old home town get together overseas, far from home and under the strain of war. . . . Use your imagination a little and you can get a mental picture of this:

Dr. William Bolton, the county's sanitarian, has just received a letter from Pvt. Donald Leeth saying "there was the line-up at our table (in a recreation center on the field)—Dwight Coffman, Mike Helfrich, Fred Shoop and myself" . . . he went on to say they sat there and ate sandwiches for more than three hours . . . and that they talked about just about everyone and everything back home they could think of.

Dr. Bolton is not sure just where they met . . . but thinks it must have been some place in Italy.

Mack Sauer, public speaker, humorist and country newspaper editor, has taken on another position . . . he has been editor of the Ripley Bee ever since the induction into the army of Bill Wylie, whose place he took, and now he has taken over the editor's chair and desk of the News-Democrat at Georgetown after A. H. Heizer went into the army . . . adding to the oddity of the situation is the fact that the Bee is a Republican paper . . . both towns are in Brown County where politics is taken seriously . . . how he'll straddle the political fence will be a performance worth watching . . . but Mack has a way and it's an odds-on bet he'll get it done and keep the friendship of both sides to boot.

He was here only this week spreading cheer among the Lions with one of his philosophy spiced talks . . . how he can hold down two editor chairs is somewhat of a mystery . . . because he not only lives in Leesburg . . . but he also travels from here to there speaking . . . for he is really a professional after dinner speaker.

Every spring late in March, for the past several years, I have noticed growing in the First Presbyterian Church yard, near the entrance to the choir room, and along the little hedge next to the Frank Jackson property, some English or March violets which poked their white blossoms up through the cold ground and bravely show their faces amid sleet and snow.

This year I have not noticed any of these favorite little violets showing bloom, so I guess most of them have died out.

At the east side of the Fayette County Infirmary building is the largest and most prolific patch of the English violets I have ever seen, and when the big movement of soldiers halted on the Infirmary or County Home grounds along about this time two years ago, the violets were at their best, a great bed of them forming a carpet of white on the ground.

PROBE OF WAR NEWS
BY CONGRESS LOOMS

OWI Not Given All Facts
Former Director Says

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Some senators have given tentative endorsement to a proposal by Palmer Hoyt, Oregon publisher and former domestic director of the Office of War Information that the Senate investigate the distribution of war news, both at home and to troops abroad.

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the Republican steering committee supported the proposal by Hoyt that the Senate set up its own committee to "find out why vital news is so often withheld and to find out the reasons for that practice."

The publisher said that despite some recent improvement, the government still ranks as a "bad reporter," because, he said, "we still are not getting all the story all the time."

MANY PROBLEMS
FACE CONGRESS
AFTER HOLIDAY

Politics, However, Holds Top
Billing in Capital Show
With Campaign On

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Despite an absent Congress, prime Washington and national issues today are those of the home front. And when Congress returns from its holiday recess it will find itself faced with the problems of taxes, veterans' benefits, subsidies, price control, military draft policies and sundry other headaches.

Simplification of the tax structure has been urged by all quarters and probably will be undertaken by Congress immediately. Among other issues to be probed by the legislators is the "G. I." veterans' benefits bill, under which returning service men would receive unemployment compensation, job priorities, educational opportunities and financial assistance from the government.

These questions, and others, point to a busy spring and summer for Senate and House alike.

Interest in Politics

But overshadowing these, and regardless of the recess, politics continues to grow in importance and eyes are on tomorrow's Republican primary in Wisconsin. Wendell L. Willkie has termed the election "vital," but some other Republicans feel the results may be inconclusive with Willkie receiving some of the 24 delegates, and others going to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, Lieut. Commander Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, and Gen. MacArthur. Meanwhile, Willkie, asked by Frederick E. Schluter, Trenton, N. J., industrialist and a GOP

THREE AAF OFFICERS
AT COURT MARTIAL

Accused With Neglect in Plane
Engine Inspection

CINCINNATI, April 3.—(AP)—A general court martial of three Army Air Force officers charged with neglect of duty in the inspection of airplane engines which allegedly resulted in delivery of faulty engines to the United States, got under way today.

A 13-member military tribunal headed by Brig. Gen. Lehman H. Milly, was slated to hear the proceedings, but both the defense and prosecution are permitted three peremptory challenges each so the final composition of the court may be as low as seven members.

Accused are Lt. Col. Frank C. Greulich, former chief inspector for the AAF Materiel Command, Wright Field, Dayton, O., who faces alleged violations of the 95th and 96th articles of war; Maj. William Bruckman of Cincinnati, former AAF Materiel Command resident inspector, and Maj. Walter A. Ryan, Detroit, former AAF Materiel Command district inspector. The latter two are charged with violating the 9th article of war.

The hearing is an outgrowth of investigations into inspection practices at the Wright Aeronautical Corp. plant in nearby Lockland.

Conviction on the charges may result in dismissal from service, fine, imprisonment, or all three.

Gasoline from Farm Crop Waste

Cleveland, April 3.—A postwar plan for making the world's gasoline, and later its coal, from farm crop wastes, forests and seaweeds was presented to the American Chemical Society here today.

The plan is based on a newly completed laboratory process developed during the past 18 years

Ohio Boys in Foxholes Buy War Bonds

(Editor's Note: This story, written by an Army correspondent and distributed by the Associated Press, tells how men in Ohio's 37th Division responded quickly and generously during the recent war bond campaign.)

WITH THE 37TH DIVISION ON BOUGAINVILLE, March 2.—(Delayed)—A foxhole-to-foxhole War Bond drive quickly was oversubscribed by men of Ohio's 37th Division.

No special inducements such as marked the campaigns back home were tried or needed. The word was passed along that here was another way a good soldier could serve his country. And when the boys came out of their foxholes and lined up at the pay table they turned back a large portion of their earnings for War Bonds.

Ohio infantrymen passed the regimental quota of $44,000 set for them in the campaign by $20,050.

A 200 percent of quota mark was easily set within a few days of the opening of the drive in not less than three rifle companies largely composed of northern Ohio's first men to enter the federal service.

Now augmented by men from every state in the Union, the regiment still lists slightly better than half of its men as being from Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown, Canton, Ashtabula, Steubenville, Ashland, Norwalk, Shreve, East Liverpool and other northern Ohio towns.

The purchases were voluntary.

Their commanding officer, Colonel Whitcomb, of Cleveland, in a memorandum to the regiment, had stated:

"I want to impress upon you that you are not being forced to participate in this program. I am merely explaining the benefits and affording you the opportunity of entering a savings plan in which I am deeply interested."

For Uncle Sam it meant taking money from one pocket and putting it in another; for each subscriber it was an investment in the future. He was laying his money on the line, confident of his ability and certain of the future.

Each man was given an opportunity of buying a bond every three months by a monthly payroll deduction plan, or of buying any size bond outright in cash. More than half the men in the regiment bought bonds; 1414 will

FIERCE FIGHTING RAGES IN INDIA

Elsewhere in Pacific War, However, Enemy Bases Are Smashed by Allied Planes and Battered by Jungle Fighters

(By the Associated Press)

Japanese patrols, filtering through the jungles of eastern India onto the Manipur Plain, have cut the roads around Imphal, Manipur capital, in an offensive obviously aimed at Dimapur on the Assam-Burman Railway lifeline to Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's forces.

The question whether air-borne supplies might be dropped to the Imphal garrison was answered here by the statement that that would not be necessary as the crisis would be overcome before such action was needed.

Dimapur is 44 miles across the Naga Hills of the Head Hunters from Kohima, 60 miles north of Imphal.

DRAFTED FATHERS TO GET TAX REFUND

NEW YORK, April 3.—(AP)—One silver lining appeared in the father-draft clouds today as income tax experts calculated that many drafted dads would be eligible for a windfall of "folding money" in addition to their mustering-out pay.

These experts found that many fathers would get back the major part of the money withheld by their employers for income tax purposes—provided they enter the armed services by around July 1.

Any resultant windfall probably will be returned by the government by mid-1945.

DALE STUMP WITHDRAWS
AS GOP CANDIDATE

COLUMBUS, April 3.—(AP)—Dale Stump, a Columbus attorney, withdrew today as a candidate for the Republican nomination as attorney general and threw his support to Herbert D. Mills of Dayton.

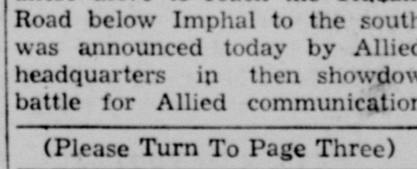

Stump last week charged that Jack Fluhrer, secretary of highway director Hal G. Sours, was touring the state in support of Hugh S. Jenkins' candidacy for the attorney generalship nomination and urging highway department employees to aid Jenkins.

LANDING SHIPS SHELLED
WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—A Pacific fleet announcement has disclosed that three American landing craft were shelled accidentally by a U. S. destroyer at Eniwetok atoll February 22, killing 13 men and wounding 46.

The Navy announcement said the mishap resulted from the fact that both the destroyer and landing vessels were slightly out of scheduled positions and visibility was restricted.

According to police, Mrs. Smith confessed in a signed statement that she had kept the girls under her hypnotic spell while "both girls always gave me all the money they earned." Total was $10,000. Ohio Flier Knocks Down Nazi
With Gas Tank When Gun Fails

HEADQUARTERS OF THE 15TH AIR FORCE IN ITALY, April 3.—(AP)—A "chance in a million" hit in which he knocked out the enemy with a gas tank instead of a gun brought Lt. Robert Paul Zirkle of Venedocia, Van Wert County, Ohio, his first victory over a Nazi fighter plane.

Zirkle, who has been on 47 missions over enemy territory in a P-38 was on weather reconnaissance last Friday when one motor began to fail. He was 300 miles from his home base and decided to turn back.

Then he spotted two Messerschmitts and swung around to meet them. Maneuvering as best he could and bearing down on the gun trigger he trained to knock out the Nazi while a steady stream of tracers from the German ship grazed the bottom of the P-38.

Just as the planes closed in the engine on Zirkle's craft failed. The P-38 went into a steep bank, then into a full roll as the engine caught hold.

$1,466,250 in Currency
Found in Safety Box of Former Chicago Mayor

CHICAGO, April 3.—(AP)—The mystery of where William Hale Thompson—"Big Bill the Builder," who served three terms as Chicago's mayor—got that $1,466,250 currency hoard found in two safety deposit boxes after his death remained unsolved today. Two more boxes await investigation later in the week.

Thompson's attorney, James W. Breen, said he believed there was more money to be found, possibly $1,000,000, and suggested that Thompson, before the 1929 crash, had converted his stock holdings into cash to put away against the hypothetical rainy day.

Breen asserted Thompson then sold nearly $2,000,000 worth of Middle West Utilities stock—the Insull firm—and stowed the money away.

In 1915, when Thompson became mayor for the first time, he sold 10,000 shares of Commonwealth Edison worth $123 per share, or a total of $1,230,000. He told associates then he did not want to be listed as a stockholder while serving as mayor.

When he died three weeks ago, Thompson's estate was valued at only $150,000, and no will has been found yet.

NEGRO PRIMARY VOTE IS UPHELD BY COURT

Highest Tribunal Rules on Case from Texas

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that Negroes have the right to vote in a Texas Democratic primary to nominate candidates for Congress.

The case was brought by Lonnie E. Smith, Houston Negro, who was excluded from voting in a 1940 primary by the election judges of the 48th precinct of Harris County, Texas.

His attorneys contended that a 1935 Supreme Court decision, sustaining the exclusion of Negroes from a Texas primary, was "based on the theory that the right to participate in the Democratic primary is one of the privileges incidental to membership in the Democratic party of Texas and should not be confused with the right to vote."

Every factory in the country—including 10,000 rushing war material—was affected by the order. Union leaders, who have denounced the strike and pleaded with the men to return to work, reported another 250,000 miners in South Wales, Scotland, Northumberland and Lancashire—Britain's most important pits—were in a restless mood over the government's four-year stabilization plan of which the men are voting this week.

The plan gives the miners a guaranteed minimum of $20 a week for underground workers and $18 for surface workers, plus an additional piece rate.

By ERNEST AGNEW
LONDON, April 3.—(AP)—British war factories, engaged in turning out equipment for the impending European invasion, faced a possible sharp drop in production today as the government ordered a general cut in power supplies because of strike-induced coal shortages.

With fuel stocks dwindling rapidly as the result of miner's strikes estimated to have cost the nation 2,000,000 tons of coal in the last month, the fuel ministry directed that electric supplies be curtailed 10 percent and gas 25 percent.

British Warplanes Smash
Battleship Tirpitz; Russians
Reassure Rumanians

By RICHARD McMURRAY

(By the Associated Press)

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The big news of the day is that Red troops are actually on Rumanian soil, not only because of its military importance but because it provides strong evidence to refute the German inspired report that when the Russians had evicted the enemy from their territory they would halt on the borders and let the rest of the Allies fight it out with the Axis.

Of course one swallow doesn't make a summer, and invasion of Rumania doesn't necessarily mean invasion of Germany. Still, Moscow has said it certainly is headed for Berlin, and there's no reason to doubt it.

The Soviet government has made a shrewd move in announcing that it has no intention of annexing any Rumanian territory but is impelled merely by military necessity. This is calculated to inspire the Rumanians to lay down their arms, and it can't help but have a salutary effect on a population which for weeks has been panicky over the approach of Red troops.

The same thing can be said of Bulgaria. Both these countries long have been held in the war only through fear inspired by the presence of German troops on their soil. They are likely to slip from under Hitler's domination as soon as he is forced to relax his military grip on their throats.

The Russians appear to be driving to block the Carpathian passes on the right wing of their advance, and to be making their main thrust towards (Iasi) (Jassy), an important railway junction on the route towards the Danubian Delta and the Ploesti oil fields. If the Germans and Rumanians intend to make a fight of it, their resistance will be shown almost immediately.

One of the great dramas of the war is unfolding in the Odessa area of the Southern Ukraine. The onrushing Reds are almost within sight of that important Black Sea port. Meantime the Axis forces are reported to be carrying out demolitions in Odessa which incidentally was one of the handsomest cities in all Russia. This means the Nazis are preparing for evacuation. However, it doesn't necessarily signify that they won't defend the town stubbornly. An undetermined number of Axis troops—perhaps as many as 200,000—are in danger of being cut off in the Odessa zone, and they won't submit easily.

While all this is going on at the southern end of the Russian front, another event of vast importance is reported from the extreme north. Finland is said in Stockholm to be considering an offer of milder peace terms from Russia. Unofficial dispatches say Moscow is offering to let the Finns keep the Hangoe Peninsula and the city of Viborg—a matter of moment to Helsinki. Withdrawal of Finland from the war at this crucial juncture would be a boon to the Allies.

This is one of the tense moments of the war, as we hang on the unfolding of the great Russian onslaught, and await the coming of the Allied invasion of western Europe. Fuehrer Hitler and his people must be enduring a strain comparable with that under which the Allies labored during the awful hours of Dunkerque.

We see a measure of the Hitlerian tension in the feverish preparations of the Nazis to meet the gathering storm in the west, while fighting for their very lives in the east. The widespread

FIRE FIGHTING COOPERATION ASKED BY CHIEF

Use Extinguishers on Small Fires—But Always Call Department, Rules

Calling for increased public cooperation in "nipping" small fires before they have a chance to grow and spread, Fire Chief George R. Hall today declared that a great majority of fires are small when they start, and at this stage usually can be put out by anyone armed with a hand extinguisher.

"Civilians have learned a lot about 'first aid' fire-fighting during the war, and they can put this knowledge to good use by keeping many small fires that break out from growing into big ones," he said. "However, this doesn't mean not to call the fire department in case of fire. The rule still reads, always call the fire department first. But even under the best conditions it takes the equipment a few minutes to arrive on the scene, and in that time a quick-thinking person may have the fire under control."

He told of recharging fire extinguishers for a downtown business house and of how, when they were returned, some employees asked: "How do you work these things, anyway?"

The chief explained that the most efficient weapon for fighting an incipient fire is an extinguisher because such a device is designed for the sole purpose of fire-fighting. People should make it a point to know the location of the extinguishers in the places where they live and work, and should "read and memorize the directions on them now, so it won't be necessary to lose time when a fire breaks out," the chief urged. The directions for servicing also should be carefully observed by the owners of such equipment, Hall pointed out, to make sure it will be in proper condition for emergencies.

flooding of Holland in itself speaks loudly of nerves. The Germans wouldn't have gone to this extreme unless they thought the final test of strength was close.

There's one thing we should bear in mind in assaying the position. It's possible the Nazis may get a breathing spell on the Russian front, due to the spring mud. We can't tell yet, for this has been an exceptional season, but it certainly seems possible that the Red drives may be vastly slowed down shortly for a month or so.

To Men & Women in the Service A Message from Home! We Greet You

For what you are---our sons---our daughters---our friends. You have gallantly answered duty's summons, deeming it a privilege to lay your all upon the altar of National Service. We love you for it. Not a waking moment passes without bringing thoughts of you; even the sleepless watches of the night are brightened by your memory. Your welfare is our deepest concern, your health and safety the burden of our anxious prayers, victory and your early return home our fondest anticipations. May God bless and keep you now and always.

WE THANK YOU . . . .

For what you are doing for us. For the tiring marches from the dawn of day to dark, for backs that ache from heavy packs, for hazards faced on land and sea, for battles planned and battles fought, for fears and tears, for mud and blood---and worse, for chance---we thank you. For kindling hope for a broken world, for standing strong against cruelty and wrong, for courage without hatred and suffering without bitterness, for broad reaches of sympathy and help, for willingness to die that treasures of freedom might be bequeathed to our children, we thank you.

WE PLEDGE YOU . . . .

To accept war's many abridgments of life without complaint, to voice no rebellion against restrictions imposed upon our clothing and food and transportation, to give generously and often to every service the national need demands. We pledge you to invest in victory by the willing purchase of stamps and bonds, to support every agency created to insure your happiness and health, to mobilize a morale that will stand for God and decency until swords are sheathed and peace has come again to the hearts and hearths of men.

Prayer for Easter

Hardest of all, dear Lord, to bear
Is that my boy on some far shore
Should wounded lie, and I not there—
(Always I was there before.)

That someone else now takes my place,
Bends in pity, swift to do
All he needs. Oh, by Thy grace,
Let him feel my presence, too!

MOTHERS of America, you can make him feel your presence in a very real way. You can help supply the very medicines that may save his life! One tablespoon of used fat alone makes enough sulfadiazine ointment to treat 35 wounded men!

So save every precious drop of used fats (in any kind of tin can, not glass). When can is full, take it to your butcher; he will give you 2 free red points and 4¢ for every pound. Start today!

Real Sense in This Advice
Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, gave the country's labor leaders a sound and timely piece of fatherly advice in a speech at Boston University. He wasn't smug or patronizing. He didn't give a one-sided, papa-knows-best lecture. Rather, it was a heart-to-heart talk in which the fatherly adviser admitted that papa had flown a bit high at one time, that he had been smacked down hard and was still picking himself up, and that it might be well if labor leaders would profit by papa's example.

Mr. Johnston went down that list of management's sins during the 1920s, when management was undisputed boss. He found parallel sins committed by increasingly powerful labor in the decade following President Roosevelt's first inauguration.

"You forgot the very thing we forgot," he told labor. "In the architecture of American society, it's just three jumps from master bedroom to the doghouse."

All that Mr. Johnston said was familiar enough and true enough. It is just that nobody has put it in quite the same way before. Usually management hurls charges at labor and labor replies with a catalog of management's villainies, while each gives the impression that all its own geese are spotless swans. And that, obviously, is no way to settle their real and disturbing differences.

It must be clear to everyone, inside of unions and out, that labor's popularity with the public has waned because of wartime strikes. During a recent work interruption at the Ford Motor Co., the United Automobile Workers' president, R. J. Thomas, called the unauthorized stoppage a "serious mistake from any point of view," and something calculated to "embitter the nation against our union."

Mr. Johnston put the same idea thus: "If the public wants you socked, why, socked you'll be. And don't think you can duck it by yelling 'anti-labor' and 'reactionary' and 'Fascist.' We didn't escape any blows coming our way by yelling 'anti-business' and 'bureaucrat' and 'Communist.'"

It seems unlikely that responsible labor leaders should feel anything but gratitude to Mr. Johnston for his advice. And it seems equally unlikely that either management or labor could find a better recipe for amiable and progressive association than the one Mr. Johnston offered.

His ingredients include: less monopoly and racketeering by both parties; equal access to the financial "facts of life" of the other; a giving up by each of unfair and crippling laws aimed at the other; fewer strikes by labor and less withholding of inventions and products by manufacturers; the fair swap of job and basic-income security for a full, honest day's work every day.

Hardly a Bank To Bank On
SOMERSET, Pa.—Police would like to find out who owns the Somerset bank building and who has been stealing it brick by brick. The building, condemned last fall by the government for a flood control project, was sold to a man who took out the plumbing and electric fixtures. Further wrecking rights were purchased by a club which removed about half the brick for its new clubhouse before winter set in. Ready to continue the razing, members found someone had taken all the marble slabs. Then it was discovered that the government contract stipulated all salvage had to be within 30 days.

The captain wired: "Suspense killing me. Hurry back and tell me about it."

The habits you form and social contacts you make in your early life will stay with you in your late life. You do not possess much adaptability. You are slow and deliberate, but these qualities bring you success. Bright days are ahead of you. All your affairs prosper exceedingly in the next year; health and finances greatly improve. Employers, elders, friends and military matters are well signified. The child born today will be one of fortune's darlings. Success, rapid promotion, and even renown, are seen. They do in promising to "feed the world."
War Food Administrator Marvin Jones deflates this nonsense by pointing out that our postwar contribution to the food supply of other nations will necessarily be limited. We have only 7 per cent of the wheat, grain and flour; a fourth of the edible fats and oils, and a third of the meat and rice available for export by the United Nations. We're not "the world's breadbasket." Canada, Australia and New Zealand, Argentina and other countries with food surpluses will carry their share of the load in future as in the past.

We will do our bit, but talking as if we would or could feed 2,000,000,000 people invites disillusionment and the bitterness that comes of broken promises. That should stop.

Portland has outlined a $75,000,000 public works program. Other cities are making similar plans. But public works are stop-gaps that do not create wealth. Private industry must absorb this surplus, and quickly.

Skin of Young Baby Specially Sensitive

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
THE BABY'S skin covers more area in proportion to weight than the adult's. Also, it contains just as many sensory end organs for temperature, touch and pain as the adult. The baby is therefore very much more sensitive and responsive to temperature changes and skin discomforts from clothes, etc., than the adult.

Impetigo is a skin eruption peculiar to childhood. It is a pus infection which appears especially on the face, and is serious to the extent that it is debilitating and uncomfortable. It usually requires professional attention from a physician rather than home remedies.

Ringworm is another skin curse of the early years. Wool socks, contrary to general belief, cause excessive perspiration and this provides an ideal condition for such infections to occur.

A. B. C.—Should a person who has angular attacks drive an automobile? Do you think the driving would be injurious to the patient?
Answer: Certainly a person subject to angular attacks should not drive an automobile. It isn't a question of whether it would be injurious to the patient, but to other people. I know of two cases of such a person killing pedestrians, and numerous serious crash accidents.

A. U. T.—A man 75 years old, though he dresses warmly, is never warm. What could be done?

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE
"Poor Pierre!" murmured Ellen. "I just had a premonition something had happened to him when Inspector Grange said he was still missing! Haven't you any idea who's behind these terrible murders?"
"Yes, dear, but I'll tell you in the morning."
"Well I'm certainly glad to hear that Roger is recovering. It certainly was a shock to find his body!" Ellen glanced at the recumbent form on the couch. "Incidentally, Argus," she said, "What are you going to do about Mabel?"
"I'll ship her back in the morning. Martinelli's probably received my ultimatum about an exchange of hostages and is scouring the countryside trying to find you. So I won't throw Mabel over the window as I threatened. It ought to teach him a lesson. And now, I think you ought to get some rest."
"I came here because I was just too scared to go home—and I wanted to talk to you."
"Boy, am I glad you did! You and Mabel take my bed."
Argus picked up Mabel's inert form with a grunt as pain stabbed his wounded shoulder. He trudged into the adjoining room and deposited the body on the bed.
"You see what happens to little girls who drink too much," he said. He removed Mabel's shoes. "Let this be a lesson to you, Miss Curtis, never to—" Ellen returned with some pajamas.
Argus grinned as Ellen pushed him to the doorway.
Argus awakened Ellen at ten the following morning with a kiss. He was shaved and dressed.
"You and Mabel have some breakfast and meet me at Syria's penthouse at 11:15—will you darling?" he whispered. Ellen nodded sleepily. Just as he was tiptoeing out of the room, Mabel stirred and opened one eye tentatively. She quickly closed it again when she saw Argus and moaned.
"What have I done? Dancer will kill both of us! Oh-h-h-h!" She lifted her arm to her head. "It's splitting!"
"I know how you feel," consoled Argus. He brought her a tall glass of water and dropped a couple of fizz tablets in it.
"This may help," he said, taking it around to her side of the bed. She propped herself up on one elbow and drank. Then, for the first time, she saw Ellen.
"Hey!" she cried. "What goes on here?"
"Don't mind him," cautioned Ellen. "He's just a amateur bigamist. But we won't quarrel over this, will we?"
"Mabel," said Argus, "this is Ellen Curtis. She's been chaperoning you ever since you passed out last night, so you don't have to worry about Dancer." The detective turned to leave. "And now, my lovely ladies, he cheer-oed, 'I have some work to do before the last round-up. I'll see you both later.' The phone rang. Argus picked it up.

British Gals May Steal Post-War Show

By ADELAIDE KERR
If American women are not careful, they will lose their feminist leadership to English women after the war.
That comment comes from Lena Madison Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women, who has just returned from a trip to England and Sweden. Dr. Phillips made her trip under the auspices of the overseas branch of the OWI and had an opportunity to talk to the women of several countries.
"In their upsurge and aggressiveness, British women are like we were after we got the vote," she said. "They are at the beginning point where self is largely submerged in zeal for the cause. They seem utterly devoid of personal ambition. And they are sweeping forward at great rate. On the other hand American women are spending a lot of time in maintaining big organizations, irrespective of the results achieved."
"British women are much closer to the war than we are. They have lived through experiences our women have never had. They have suffered, lost and learned. And they have developed a greater social consciousness than we have. After the war they will be more in tune with the times."
Dr. Phillips, who was in London during recent bombings, flew from England to Sweden and back. She had some interesting comment to make on the woman air traveler's wartime costume. For the trip she wore two flying suits, one silk, the other canvas. In one pocket was a whistle, in the other was a battery connected with a red light on her shoulder—both intended for use in case the plane was shot down at sea. Her head, with its close-cropped white hair, was encased in an oxygen mask, her feet in wool lined boots.
"We flew at night, of course—

New Victory Gardens on Sod Land

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association
MANY NEW Victory gardens will be made this year on new land, meaning soil which has not recently been cultivated and has reverted to a heavy sod cover or a growth of weeds or brush. Where a heavy growth of weed or brush vegetation exists the soil will be found fertile and can be adapted to vegetable gardening.
Sod land should be plowed or dug up early. If the sod is weedy it should be skimmed off with a mattock and shaken out, removing the roots but leaving the soil. Newly broken land should be allowed to settle before being planted.

Washington at a Glance

WASHINGTON—Your capital in war time.
Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart, California Republican, has introduced a bill, which on the surface appears silly, but may not be at all. What the congressman wants to do is to make all Japanese in this country sign a pledge renouncing allegiance to Japan and declaring support of the United States.
The immediate question arises: Wouldn't the Japs just sign a lie, declare their faithfulness and go merrily about their business of sabotage, spying, etc.? Some would, there's no doubt about it. But according to Rep. Gearhart, there already are 8,000 Japs in this country who have asked deportation to Japan and 20,000 more who have refused to take any pledge of loyalty to the United States.
At present, there's no punishment for these Japs except keeping them in detention camps, where most of them are better clothed and fed than they were before the war. The congressman's bill would put them on the dotted line, with some assurance that something could be done about it if they eventually proved to be liars.
Paul Porter, new press relations director for the Democratic national committee, paid a pretty tribute to his predecessor, Charles Michelson, when he held his first press conference.
"I feel," Porter said, "as if I were on the stage at Carnegie Hall and someone said, 'Here, Paul, is Kreisler's violin. Now play it.'"
Political observers here are betting that former Vice President John N. Garner will break political silence this year—not from any interest in the presidential election, but because Senator W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel has declared open season on all his Texas colleagues in Congress who have served more than six years.
Garner already has made a move, through a letter, which he permitted to be made public, to defend the congressional tenure of office. Senator Tom Connally is the 14th ranking member of the Senate. Of the first 15 ranking members of the House, four are Texans. As long as committee assignments and congressional prestige operates on a seniority basis, Texas has an edge on the rest of the country in authority and influence in the national legislature. Garner will argue, it's reported here, that to throw away that influence would be a bit of the old proverbial biting off one's own nose.
Since O'Daniel himself will have served eight years at the expiration of his term in 1949, politics here are wondering just what "Pappy" is up to and why.
It hasn't been publicized at all, but the increase in airmail in the last three years is one of the really staggering things on the government books. In 1942, there were 33,000,000 airmail envelopes issued to postmasters. Last year, there were 207,000,000, and officials are pleading that the public lay off buying them so the armed service can be adequately supplied. There is, however, no shortage of stamps.

Jeanne Woollard Betrothal To Dr. John L. Chynoweth Is Made Saturday Afternoon

Vows Will Be Exchanged in Near Future by Popular Young Couple; Luncheon-Bridge Follows Announcement

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Jeanne Woollard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred D. Woollard of Rawling Street, to Dr. John L. Chynoweth of Cincinnati, was made at a most delightful and charming luncheon-bridge at the Country Club, Saturday afternoon.

The announcement was cunningly concealed in miniature crystal match boxes which were frosted on the top and used as placecards. Inside were tiny matches, attached to which was a small card reading, "It's a match, John and Jeanne."

This announcement came as a complete surprise to many of the guests, and the charming guest of honor was showered with a number of best wishes and congratulations at this time.

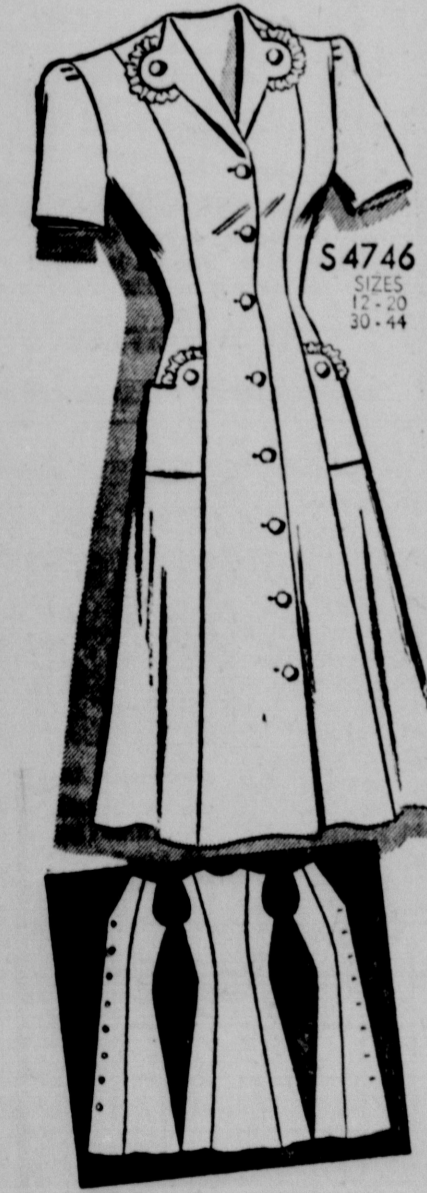

For the occasion the guest of honor received her guest wearing a two-piece brown frock with a ruching of organdy and small roses around the neckline. Mrs. Woollard wore an orchid afternoon frock trimmed with braiding and had matching accessories. Mrs. Chynoweth wore a spring print frock with natural accessories and a large rhinestone brooch adorned the neckline of the smart ensemble.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Ohio University in Athens where she was a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and upon graduating came here where she has been a grade school teacher. She is now teaching at Cherry Hill school.

Dr. Chynoweth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Chynoweth of Springfield, and is now taking his internship at the General Hospital in Cincinnati. He is a Lt. (j. g.) in the U. S. Naval Reserve, and upon completion of his internship will be called to active duty. He attended Miami University, Oxford where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau, social fraternity, and graduated from Ohio State University, Dental College in 1943. He was a member of Psi Omega, and was president of that fraternity in his senior year. He also was a member of the Student Senate and vice-president of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Following the announcement the club hostess, Mrs. Hazel Devins, served a most tempting and appetizing luncheon at three round tables, all similarly decorated with bowls of pastel-shaded sweet-peas and buttercups. Dainty arrangements of spring cut flowers were seen in great profusion throughout the spacious and attractively appointed club lounge.

After the prolonged and enjoyable social hour the remainder of the afternoon was spent at the bridge tables, and score awards

Janis Carlson Guest of Honor at Farewell Party

Miss Janis Carlson was feted with a most enjoyable farewell party, Saturday evening, by the Misses Janet and Georgibel Graves at their home on North Fayette Street, and during the course of the evening's pleasures the guest of honor was presented with a silver identification bracelet. Her response was most gratifying.

Newlyweds Feted At Dinner Party

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Underwood entertained with an elaborate dinner party at the Rendezvous Room in honor of Staff Sergeant and Mrs. Dwight Beatty (Martha Carter) a bride and bridegroom of the past week. For the occasion, the petite guest of honor wore a chic black frock with inserts of lace at the waist and neckline.

A delicious and tempting steak dinner was served from an attractively appointed table, which was decorated in white, with a centerpiece of pastel-shaded spring cut flowers.

After enjoying the bountiful and appetizingly-prepared dinner, the guests of honor were presented with lovely wedding gifts, for which they made appropriate response. Pictures of the dinner party were then taken and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and visiting.

Guests present with the host and hostess and guests of honor were Mrs. Raymond Free of Piqua, Sgt. Howard Eisenbrey, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cabbage and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lentz.

Wedding Vows Exchanged By Couple Saturday Eve

Capt. Kay Martin, WACS, stationed in Columbus, and Lt. Jack D. Colburn, also of Columbus, exchanged nuptial vows in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church, Saturday evening as the hands of the clock reached eleven-thirty. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John K. Abernethy, pastor of the church.

Attending the couple as maid of honor was Miss Marian Osborn and best man was Lt. George L. Scripps, also of Columbus. Among those attending were Miss Patti Osborn.

The bride couple wore for their marriage the officer's dress uniform. Immediately following the beautiful and impressive ceremony, the couple left on a short honeymoon before returning to their duties at their stations in Columbus.

The bride is known here, having been the houseguest of Mrs. Robert Osborn and Miss Marian Osborn many times during the past year.

OF HUMAN INTEREST At The War Front

CHESAPEAKE. (Delayed)—(P)—Lt. Chauncy Hicks, who was shot down over occupied France during a U. S. Army Air Force raid last September 6, has escaped and is now in England, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hicks of Chesapeake, reported yesterday.

Lt. Hicks was a bombardier on a Flying Fortress, and was seen to bail out of his ship by another pilot who reported after returning to his base: "He was still giving the Jerries fits with a sub-machine gun even while he was parachuting to the ground."

Word that he was safe was confirmed in a cablegram to Miss Virginia Silvey of Huntington, W. Va. She said that several weeks ago Lt. Hicks' family received word he was "well and safe," but that the report had been kept confidential.

LONDON. (Delayed)—(P)—Flying his first mission in a Mustang, Maj. Morris C. Crossan (1205 Cottage Place, N. W.) Canton, Ohio, took part in the shattering air assault on occupied France yesterday and bagged two planes.

He was one of a group of Mustang pilots who wiped one enemy field clear of a number of enemy planes.

Maj. Crossan knocked out a Junkers 88 on the ground, then roared skyward and shot down a ME-109 circling to land.

"If it all goes like this," he said, "I'm going to like it over here."

NAPLES. —(Delayed)—(P)—Honey-mooning on a battlefield under enemy fire, a United States army nurse and a Signal Corps lieutenant were secluded briefly today, after their wedding in a hospital tent Monday night.

This first beachhead wedding culminated a 19-month romance that began at Camp Pickett, Va., in August, 1942, when Lt. Thomas G. Rose, Lancaster, O., met Nurse 2nd Lt. Genevieve Clarke, Allison Park, Pa.

Rose went overseas first and the couple met again last August in Sicily where they applied for the necessary papers.

Then the Italian campaign began and they waited until permission finally came through to Anzio.

The ceremony was performed at a flower-banked altar in a sandbagged tent lighted by 10 candles in a pair of home-made candelabra stained dark red with iodine.

Capt. Carl J. Simon, Canton, O., pumped out a wedding march on a little organ. Tech. Sgt. Eugene Wentz, Pittsburgh, Pa., sang "I Love You Truly," because nobody that the men were combat infantrymen. They were buying bonds from what little is left after insurance and allotments home had been deducted from their pay. Pay which in most cases amounted to the $60 a month of an overseas private.

Foxholes and parapets, blood plasma and medical aid, guns and ammunition, rain and sweat have become inbred in these men. Theirs might have been interpreted as a selfish purchase, for they know that each dollar may mean one less life lost, one less man wounded, one less day the war itself will last. They know war.

The Ohio infantrymen from among the vines and tall trees of Bougainville have certainly set an example for those at home to follow. And they pride themselves in that they and their regiment hold one more first in the inevitable triumph.

WHS HONOR ROLL HAS 293 NAMES; NOT COMPLETE

Senior Class Compiling It, Wants Families To Help Fill in Omissions

The Washington C. H. High School Honor Roll now bears the names of 293 former students who entered the service of their country at war, but there is a feeling among those who are compiling and revising the list that it is still incomplete and that it may contain a few minor inaccuracies, such as spelling of names.

When Karl J. Kay, advisor of the senior class whose members are assembling the information, released the list as it now stands, he expressed the hope of the class that friends and families would cooperate with the class in making the Honor Roll an accurate record of the service record of WHS. He added that the class was anxious to have the list complete so the proper number of stars could be placed on the big service flag that hangs in the auditorium.

The present list was compiled from the school's records by Miss Helen Gerhardt, the honor roll secretary.

The class advisor suggested that for addition of names and corrections in the present list, a card be sent either to Miss Gerhardt or him or that a telephone call be made to the office of Walter F. Rettig, the high school principal, during school hours.

Already there are seven gold stars for those who have given their lives for their country on the service flag list—Aviation Cadet Robert Frost, Aviation Cadet Walter (Bud) Fults, Sgt. Harold LeFevre, Sgt. Roy Litt, Jr., Ensign William Marting, Cpl. Robert Sexton, and Cpl. Charles Stewardson.

Two former students of WHS are now prisoners of war—Lieut. William Reese (in Rumania) and Flight Officer Norman Armbrust (in Germany).

The list also contains the names of several girls serving in uniform.

In releasing the list, Kay expressed confidence that it would be brought nearer completion and that the omissions would be filled in. Here is the list:

BOLT STRIKES BUILDING ON MARKET STREET

Several Partly Stunned as Lightning Hits the Robinson Block

A bolt of lightning struck a chimney on the Robinson building on Market Street, opposite the Courthouse grounds, about 4:30 P.M. Saturday, partly stunning several persons, burning out electric light services in four places, and destroying a radio aerial that was attached to the chimney.

Mrs. Vada Burnett, who has apartments on the second floor, was stunned and made very ill by the heavy concussion, the bolt running down the chimney and wall between the Robinson building and that of the Dr. I. L. Humphrey building.

Those affected by the lightning, but not seriously shocked, in addition to Mrs. Burnett, were Dr. and Mrs. Humphrey, who were standing at the front part of the office looking out the window; Office Stookey who has a watch repair shop in the building; Ernest Brookover, who was in the front part of his feed store in a room adjacent to the one where the lightning struck; Laverne Whitmore, who was standing in the Stookey repair shop and Andy Gidding, whose real estate office is in the building; Ralph Hays, Springfield, and Virgil Vincent, in Gidding's office at the time.

A huge ball of fire rolled across the room in which Dr. and Mrs. Humphrey were standing.

In the Stookey office, a switch was blasted out by the bolt and blue flames shot entirely across the room, passing between Stookey and Whitmore, and leaving both dazed temporarily.

All switches in the two buildings were destroyed, and the copper aerial was torn down and hurled upon the sidewalk. Pieces of brick were also scattered about the top of the building and the sidewalk in front of the structure.

Damage to the building was light.

Stookey had 123 watches in his safe, and the electricity from the bolt magnetized all of them and broke main springs in 14 of the watches. One main spring was shattered into 25 pieces.

Stookey used a demagnetizer on all of the watches.

Firemen were called to investigate and Fire Chief George Hall checked the structure carefully to see that no fires were started.

Members, including "Crown Him Lord" and "A Perfect Day", and was warmly commended by the pastor and many members of the congregation, for their good work.

In addition to the singing of a short, Rev. Parkin delivered a choir sermon on "The Old Gospel in a New World," in which he stressed the fact that man's fundamental needs are the same in every generation, and the great need is for spiritual help.

"The material and assurance of a better world are to be found in the minds and hearts of mankind," he said.

Family Given Wings Of Son, Cadet Walter Fults

Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Fults, 826 Washington Avenue, today have the silver wings which their son, A-C Walter S. (Bud) Fults, would have earned had he not been killed in an accidental training plane crash at Aloft Field, Victoria, Texas, two weeks ago.

In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Fults, Brig. Gen. Luther Stevens Smith, commanding general of the Army Air Forces central flying command at Randolph Field, Texas, said:

"The Commanding General of the Army Air Forces, General H. H. Arnold, desires that the enclosed wings be presented to you in honor of your son, Aviation Cadet Walter S. Fults, who gave his life in training in an effort to become a pilot in the Army Air Forces."

"This pair of wings would have been his badge of achievement had he been permitted to complete his flying training. The Army Air Force presents them in honor of his memory and you can rightfully share the pride which would have been his upon receiving these wings. It is the pleasure and wish of this command that you retain the wings in recognition of the effort of your son to achieve the right to wear them."

Maj. Harry B. Jacobsen, commandant of cadets at Aloft Field, wrote in part: "... A tragedy of this kind is always a shock and particularly so in this instance where the passing involved one who was so outstanding in every phase of his training."

"Your son was an excellent student, both in his flying and in his academic work, but above all, he was a good soldier. He was held in the highest esteem by his fellow classmates as well as the instructors and officers of this field."

NO PROPERTY IS FOUND IN COLLETT'S NAME

Farm Found To Be Listed In Wife's Name in Clinton County

Sheriff J. E. Hodson, of Clinton County, has announced that he found no property in the name of James W. Collett, upon which to levy the cost of his prosecution in the murder trial here.

Prosecutor John B. Hill had placed an execution for $853.20 in the hands of Hodson, to levy on any property found in Collett's name in Clinton County.

The writ will be returned stating that no property has been found upon which to levy, leaving the state to pay the costs.

The Collett farm near New Burlington is in the name of Mrs. Laura Collett, his wife, and there is no personal property in Collett's name, and Collett did not file any personal property for taxation.

In criminal cases the state requires that an execution be issued and the Sheriff make a return showing the defendant is without property to pay the costs before it will pay them.
